2016 Scholarship Awards

The Scholarship Committee selected three young women, who not only embody the ideals of AAUW, but also the spirit, educational, and societal values of the ladies for whom the scholarships are named. Congratulations Shefali, Molly, and Jillian!

Shefali Amin is this year's recipient of the Beverly J. Smith Memorial Scholarship. Shefali, a graduate of East Pennsboro High School, completed course work at Arcadia University, and is currently enrolled at Gannon University, where she will be a senior this fall. Shefali's passion is medical science with aspirations of becoming a physician. Her extracurricular activities are a tribute to her leadership skills. She served as secretary of the Organization of Women Leaders, president of Global Unity at Gannon University, and is an active member of Gamma Sigma Sigma Service Society. It is not surprising that her professors describe her with such superlatives as: motivated, dedicated, and compassionate.

The Martha M. Dohner Scholarship recipient is Molly Lemke. Molly is a graduate of The Circle School and Harrisburg Area Community College, and is currently attending Wilson College, where she aspires to earn a Bachelor's degree in veterinary technology. This degree is aligned with her love of animals and will enable her to continue advocating the therapeutic benefits animals have in their interaction with people. Molly's journal skills were recognized in her superb work as editor of The Wildwood Journal.

Jillian Susi was the committee's choice for the Sue C. Peck Scholarship. Jillian graduated from Boiling Springs High School, and attends The Pennsylvania State University. She is focused on a career in public relations, with a minor in political science. Her experience includes: an internship for the Partnership for Achieving Construction Excellence; Director of the Penn State Homecoming 2016 Donor Relations; Vice-President of Communications Student Council, and service on the Penn State Dance MaraTHON Communications Committee. Jillian was described as positive, reliable, dedicated, and well organized.

These young women will be honored at the Branch's fall luncheon on September 17.
